

■ First place for two consecutive years in the "Truly Great Place to Live" award

Today, Kawaguchi is a city where traditional industries such as tree-planting and foundries that have been in place since the Edo period while inheriting traditional industries, Kawaguchi has been transformed into a residential city. The commercial, cultural, and educational facilities are well-developed, and the population increase due to the construction of condominiums has made Kawaguchi a vibrant and comfortable place to live. The city's presence is growing. In a survey conducted by a private company the "Truly Comfortable City to Live in Award," gave the city high marks in terms of convenience, living environment, and educational environment, etc. The area was ranked No. 1 for two consecutive years. It has also been ranked for four consecutive years.

■ People behind traditional industries

The world-renowned Angyo brand and the production of high-quality flowers and plants have inherited traditional techniques, wisdom, and knowledge, and are very important in supporting the development of the city. Kawaguchi is a charming town where "traditional industries" deeply connected with history and the "people" who support them are woven together.
